Forgiveness
may not be easy, but needs to happen so people can move on.

A hand-drawn figure with a central text box. The figure has a rectangular head, a rectangular torso, and a rectangular base. It has four arms, each holding a rectangular object. There are four sets of three lines radiating from the head, suggesting hair or a crown. The text box is a white rectangle with a black border, containing the text: "You may think you're the bravest and strongest. But if you can't say sorry and forgive you are neither strong nor brave."

You may think you're the bravest and
strongest.
But if you
can't say sorry
and forgive you
are neither
strong nor brave.

A stylized figure composed of thick black outlines. It has a rectangular head, a central rectangular torso containing a white text box, and a trapezoidal base. Four trapezoidal arms extend from the sides of the torso. From each arm and the top of the head, three thin black lines radiate outwards, resembling rays of light or hair.

Life is not about making
enemies it is about
keeping
friends.

A stylized figure identical in structure to the one on the left, composed of thick black outlines with a central text box, a head, a base, and four arms, each with radiating lines.

Until you forgive you
cannot find
Love in yourself.

Forgiveness
is a sign of the path to happiness.
Without it
we would feel sad.

Forgiveness
is a sign of a fresh start.
When we forgive we are showing Love.

A hand-drawn diagram on a light purple background. It features a central white rectangular box with a black border containing the text "Time to bring everyone together when people are upset." The box is surrounded by four trapezoidal shapes (top, bottom, left, right) that radiate outwards. Each of these shapes has three short, parallel lines extending from its outer edge, suggesting a signal or light source.
